NOVEMBER SIXTEENTH.

Nov. 16th was quite generally observed as a holiday, particularly in the afternoon. Probably it will not be observed hereafter as no longer exists. It is proper to keep the birthday of the reigning sovereign, but when the monarch dies no reason exists for continuing the observance. The holiday air of our streets was chiefly owing to two causes, the first of which is the inclination, induced no doubt by our easy climate, to take holidays on every plausible occasion; and the other is the dull condition of business. In fact probably most of Honolulu's business at the present time could be done in four or at most five days in each week.

HON. HENRY A. P. CARTER.

In another column will be found a notice of the death of Henry A. P. Carter, together with a short sketch of his life. Mr. Carter was well known in the United States and England, and the news of his death brought out much favorable and sympathetic comment. But it came to us at the islands bringing a sense of personal as well as national loss. Few of those born in the islands have attained the broad and solid reputation which was his. He has had the confidence of the reigning monarch, and of the various governments, since his first entry into public life. He entered the ministry early in the reign of Kalakaua, but won his chief laurels and more enduring reputation as the diplomatic representative of Hawaii. As a diplomat he was recognized as a cautious and conservative adviser, and one whose word was worthy of full trust and dependence. It will be difficult to fill his place in Washington. Mr. Carter's death also creates a social void, for he was a welcome guest in every house and his receptions and entertainments of all times were regarded as only the best in the better sense. In this respect all will at once accord the full meed of praise to his wife and family. In this death the church also loses a strong pillar and it will be a vacancy hard to supply, for his wise and earnest counsel was productive of only good.

The family and connections have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community in their bereavement. The nation's respect was shown in a general closing of the public offices upon the receipt of the news yesterday.

SAMOAN AFFAIRS.

The Samoan Times of October 31st ult. says: "It is exceedingly strange and painfully annoying that Mataafa should so obstinately refuse to listen to the friendly advice offered him by the representatives of the treaty powers, to obey the commands of the King and abandon the fruitless efforts he and his followers have been, and are still, making to create an insurrection in the islands. It is now very generally reported that the followers of Mataafa had actually arranged to hoist his flag at Malie, which Mataafa had a difficulty to prevent being done. This would, of course, mean a defiance of the King and Government, and open rebellion against the King's authority. Mataafa has even refused to be guided by the instructions or advice lately forwarded from the U. S. Secretary of State, to retire from the position he has assumed in Malie. Even the advice of his best friends amongst the foreign residents of the islands has been disregarded. This seems so inconsistent with Mataafa's reputation for good sense; and his oft-repeated assertion of love of his country makes his conduct more difficult to understand, and a very general surmise is entertained that some unknown influence has been brought to bear to induce Mataafa to act so inconsistently."

A Favorite Remedy.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite during the winter months on account of its great success in the cure of colds. There is nothing that will loosen a severe cold so quickly, or as promptly relieve the lungs. Then it counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is pleasant and safe to take, and fully worthy of its popularity. For sale by all Dealers.

HENRY CARTER DEAD.

End of the Career of Hawaii's Popular Diplomat.

He Succumbs to a Complication of Diseases After a Lingering Illness.

(Special Dispatch to S. F. Chronicle.)

NEW YORK, November 1.—H. A. P. Carter, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States from Hawaii, died here this morning at 1:30 o'clock at the Everett House. His death was the result of a long illness, he having suffered from an organic disease that developed into dropsy. He took a trip abroad for the benefit of his health, but derived no advantage from it. He arrived here September 24th last, and has been confined to his bed almost constantly since then. He was attended by his wife, three daughters and one son, G. R. Carter, of Seattle, Wash.

The younger son was graduated from Yale two or three years ago and went to Seattle to engage in banking. The other son, Charles, is married, and is a lawyer in Honolulu.

Mr. Carter's intellectual powers were unimpaired to the last, and he died without any special suffering. He failed gradually after arriving here, his disease making more rapid progress during the twenty-four hours previous to his death.

It had not been decided to-day whether there would be religious services over the body in this country. Mrs. Carter and her daughters will go to Honolulu, with the corpse, sailing from San Francisco about November 20.

By the death of Henry A. P. Carter, the Kingdom of Hawaii loses one of her ablest statesmen and diplomats. From the time King Kalakaua first ascended to the throne, some sixteen years ago, Mr. Carter had been prominently identified with the affairs of state of the Sandwich Islands. He served for several years in the King's Cabinet, first as Minister of the Interior and later as Minister of Finance.

During the lifetime of the late King, Mr. Carter was one of his closest advisers, and in all affairs of great moment to the kingdom his advice was carefully considered, owing to his superb judgment and conservatism.

Mr. Carter has served his country as Minister to the United States for about ten years, and at Washington has held a high place in the esteem of the diplomatic corps.

He was born in Honolulu fifty-six years ago, being the son of the late Captain Carter, one of the first traders to carry on commerce between the East Indies and Chinese ports and the Pacific Coast. Up to the time he entered the diplomatic service he was engaged in mercantile pursuits, in which he amassed a considerable fortune. Besides a wife and five children, two sons and three daughters, Mr. Carter leaves two brothers, Samuel and Jos. O., both prominent business men in Honolulu, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Lewers, the wife of a well-to-do lumber merchant in the Hawaiian capital.

The Planters' Monthly.

This periodical for the current month is out, and is mostly taken up with reports presented at the annual meeting, held in this city last month. Among those printed are the secretary's, those of the committee on machinery, coffee and tea, ramie, legislation, and live stock. Interesting reports on coffee and tea are printed from Mr. Chas. D. Miller and W. G. Wait, of Kona, Hawaii. The report of Mr. Dillingham on animals, hay and feed, contains facts which every one should know, and shows how much money goes out of the kingdom for live stock and produce which can be easily raised at home.

The Holiday Season.

Mr. J. T. Waterhouse has received a ship load of new goods for his various stores. Embroidery and fancy goods suitable for presents for ladies, art novelties in painted and feather fans and a large line of notions. They have a big stock of new toys for boys and girls. In fact you can get anything you want for a holiday gift or ordinary use.

The Queen street store has an excellent stock of crockery and other articles for domestic use.

Removal of Stock of the Pacific Hardware Company.

The PACIFIC HARDWARE CO. have removed their goods from McInerney Hall to the second floor of their New Building, and are as rapidly as possible putting the stock in shape.

A portion of their New Goods for the Holidays have been received, and more are expected immediately, when a regular opening will take place. In the meantime they will be pleased to have their friends visit the upstairs Sales and Art Rooms.
